

Roofing Battens

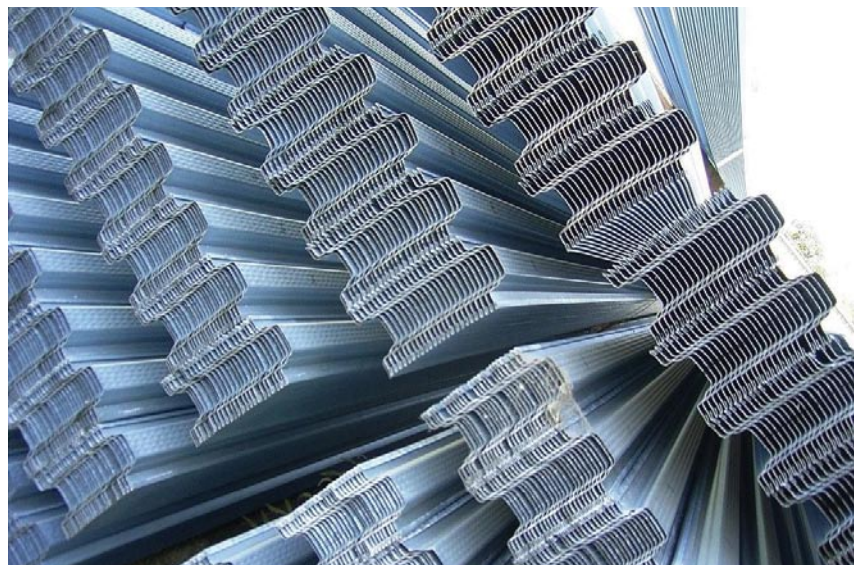

Qualipac Plus established Better Battens in 2007 to manufacture and supply steel roofing and ceiling battens to the West Australian building industry.

Better Battens operate from a site in Belmont and specialise in the manufacture and distribution of steel roofing and ceiling battens. Our battens are cut into standard 6.1 m lengths, suitable for most commercial building applications, but can be cut to any length required.

Our steel battens offer substantial benefits over their timber counterparts, including being lightweight, high strength, long lasting and fire and termite resistant; they do not shrink, warp or twist.

Why purchase through Better Battens?

- Products made locally
- Rolled safety edges on roof and ceiling battens to enhance user confidence and safety
- Available in standard 6.1m lengths, or customised to meet your needs
- Transport and storage simplified due to top hat cross section which enables them to be neatly stacked
- Our ceiling batten is 22mm x 0.42bmt
- Our roofing batten is 42mm x 0.55bmt
- We have stock on hand at all times
- We can arrange prompt delivery to your site

Our product is backed up by a high level of customer service so you can be assured that your battens will be delivered to your premises or building site when you need them. As well as having a ready supply of both roof and ceiling battens on hand, our experienced production team have the experience and expertise to manufacture your custom order to your timeframes.

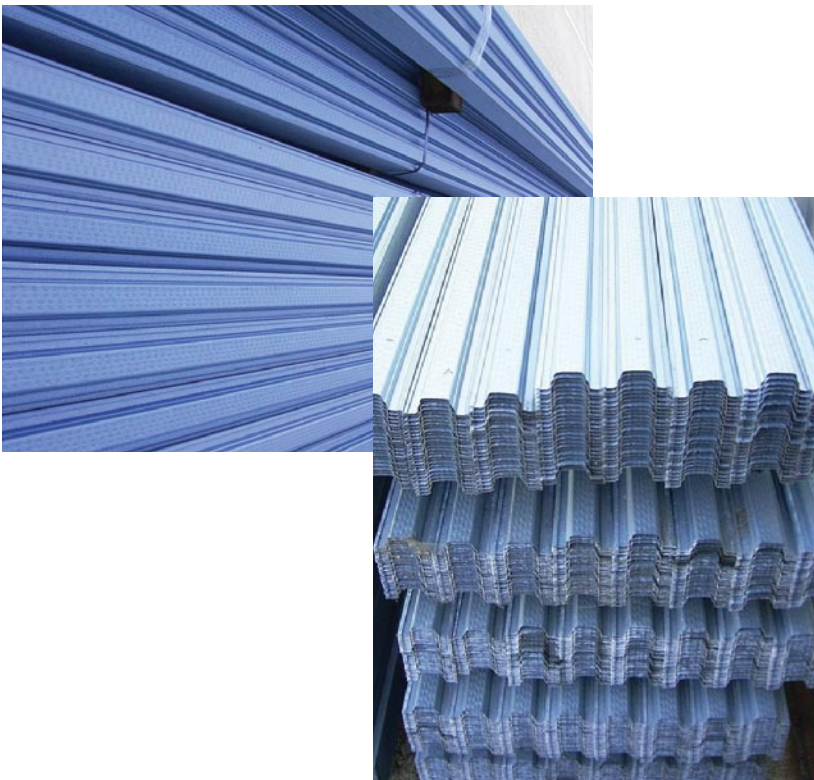

Our battens are provided at a very competitive price; we encourage you to consider us as your regular supplier for both roofing and ceiling battens.
